Part 0 SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM, MOLIT & ICAK

Master's degree In Urban Development and Smart Infrastructure Policy

Master's degree In Urban Development and Smart Infrastructure Policy funded by the Ministry of Land, Infrastructure and Transport (MOLIT) in Korea is designed to support Graduate Studies Program for government officials working in infrastructure development or related fields in partner countries of Korea.

The main goal of the program is to support the training of key personnel who have the capacity to lead the sustainable physical development of Korea's partner countries through the transfer of Korea's know-how and experiences in infrastructure development.

The MOLIT launched the program with the International Contractors Association of Korea (ICAK), expecting to contribute to the capacity-building in infrastructure development of partner countries by allowing the participants to experience Korea's development process, acquire specialized knowledge in the field of infrastructure and physical development through intensive training, and strengthen the ability for infrastructure planning & management.

The program will make its best effort to support participants of the program not only in expanding their knowledge of infrastructure development, but also in establishing valuable networks with scholars and professionals in Korea while experiencing Korean culture, society and history.

Ministry of Land, Infrastructure and Transport (MOLIT) in Korea

The Ministry of Land, Infrastructure and Transport (MOLIT) was a cabinet-level division of the government of South Korea. The ministry was originally the Ministry of Construction and Transportation.

A country's land should serve as a home for the people. Bearing this in mind, the ministry seeks more balanced territorial development with a focus on fostering innovation cities, along with other regions into real growth hubs. Through the so-called "New Deal for Urban Renewal", the goal is to improve the quality of life, create jobs, and secure future growth engines.

The ministry also tacks abnormal business practices to create industry conditions that help promote the mutual sustenance between operators and workers, thereby sharpening the competitive edge for the industry and improving the quality of jobs countrywide.

With regards to transportation services, the ministry is committed to better serving the public interest. Rather than viewing the state-run institution only from a profitability-oriented perspective, the ministry emphasizes the fundamental value of the public services for the people.

International Contractors Association of Korea (ICAK)

The International Contractors Association of Korea (ICAK) was established in 1976 as the nation's only promotion agency for the overseas construction industry. The main function of the ICAK is to facilitate Korean contractors' overseas business and to develop the industry as a whole.

The ICAK assists its 708 member companies in exploring overseas market, developing projects, and negotiating contracts. It also works to increase cooperation and understanding between the Korean construction industry and those of other nations.

As the nation's only think tank specialized in the overseas construction industry, the ICAK keeps abreast of important changes and developments in the world construction market. The ICAK also maintains important functions such as research & policy development, information service, plant project development & assistance, project appraisal & risk management, and education. In addition, the ICAK promotes bilateral and multilateral international cooperation, such as joint surveys on markets, information and personnel exchanges, and on-the-job training for key partner countries.

Hub of 'International Networking' for Global Experts

Shin LEE
Dean of ISUS, University of Seoul

International School of Urban Sciences was founded in 2012 at the University of Seoul with an aim to serve a global knowledge exchange platform covering the areas of sustainable urban development, infrastructure development and construction, and environmental management. In particular, we seek to share with the rest of the world Korea's experience accumulated over the decades of rapid development and urbanization.

Over 100 domestic and overseas students who are working professionals in cross-related fields join us each year and, cumulatively, they represent some 70 countries and 5 continents. Domestic students are to advance their knowledge and gain a global perspective so they can actively participate in international development cooperation. Overseas students are to learn about Korea's policy experiences in addressing development problems while they acquire specialized knowledge in their focus areas.

Together, we aim to produce experts who can offer 'solutions' to diverse urban and regional problems, tailored for varying local conditions around the globe and can also effectively engage in the global market and policy community with their expertise. This ability does not only require the state-of-the-art knowledge in the relevant field but also a good amount of international exposure and cross-disciplinary interactions. On top of their real world experience they bring with them, our students add scientific perspectives and knowledge whilst interacting, culturally as well as intellectually, across the diverse student groups we have here at the International School of Urban Sciences.

Thanks to the interest and support from our partner organizations and contributing individuals, the University, and Seoul Metropolitan Government, the School has shown signs of healthy growths over the past years. Please watch us develop. We look forward to your continued interest and support.

Thank you.

For more information, please visit <http://www.uos.ac.kr/en/>

2. INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL OF URBAN SCIENCES (ISUS)

International School of Urban Sciences (ISUS) of University of Seoul (UOS) was launched in Spring 2013 in an effort to contribute to the development of sustainable urban communities in the world through an interdisciplinary program of teaching, research, and outreach. ISUS offers two graduate programs in global construction management and sustainable urban & regional development. The two-year graduate degree programs seek to provide an interdisciplinary, engaged learning environment in which students from various fields acquire the knowledge and professional skills necessary for becoming leading practitioners in the field of environment policy and sustainable development.

In addition to the regular graduate programs, ISUS created the International Urban Development Program (IUDP) in cooperation with partner agencies and institutions in order to share Korea's achievement in urban and regional development with scholars and practitioners from the world. Currently, IUDP offers the Seoul Case Study Program in partnership with several world-renowned public administration and public policy schools in the U.S., and the U.K. The one-week field study program provides graduate students from partner universities with a unique opportunity to learn the best practices of Seoul in various urban administration and development areas. Each year, IUDP also invites about 20 government officials from Seoul's global partner cities for a master's degree program, Master of Urban Administration and Planning (MUAP). The MUAP program, sponsored by Seoul Metropolitan Government is designed for municipal government officials from Seoul's global partner cities to acquire academic and professional knowledge and skills that can help them work for the special challenges their home communities have been facing with. Since 2015, ISUS has developed Master's program for Future Global Leaders in Environmental Policy (MGLEP), sponsored graduate degree program, in partnership with the Ministry of Environment of Korea (KME) for government officials from KME's partner countries. ISUS recently launched another sponsored graduate degree program in global infrastructure development, Master's degree In Urban Development and Smart Infrastructure Policy(MUDSIP) in partnership with Ministry of Land, Infrastructure and Transport (MOLIT) for government officials from partner countries. And now, under the support of MOLIT, MUDSIP has been reborn with a new name: Master's degree In Urban Development and Smart Infrastructure Policy(MUDSIP), continuing the legacy of MUDSIP. These sponsored graduate programs are expected to contribute to the sustainable urban development smart infrastructure in developing countries by providing the academic and professional skills necessary for their home countries.
